

CHICKEN CHUMPS

• CRUEL KYLE •

VegKids.com

CHICKEN CHUMPS

• SICKLY SALLY •

VegKids.com

CHICKEN CHUMPS

• TUBBY TAMMY •

VegKids.com

CHICKEN CHUMS

• FEATHERED FRIENDS •

VegKids.com

Sickly Sally

Most chickens in stores have germs on them that can make you sick, and often those germs are really just poop! Sally feels awful after eating that poop-covered, germ-filled chicken sandwich. Her head is pounding, her stomach hurts, and she can't get out of bed without throwing up.

People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals
1-888-VEG-FOOD • VegKids.com

PETA

Illustrations © Ken Course VE2382 3/04

Cruel Kyle

Kyle is mean because he scarfs down legs, wings, and bony things. The chickens he eats live in big sheds, where they can't breathe fresh air or feel the warm sun. Bored to death, they have to sit all day in their poop and pee with no room to move. When they grow up, their throats are cut with a big knife. Help these chickies: Say "no, thanks" to chicken sandwiches or chicken anything. Tell your friends, too!

People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals
1-888-VEG-FOOD • VegKids.com

PETA

Illustrations © Ken Course VE2382 3/04

Feathered Friends

Scientists who study chicken intelligence say that chickens are as smart as dogs or cats. They form friendships and remember each other. Some have lots of friends and others prefer to be by themselves. They love their families, want to spend time with them, and don't want to be eaten any more than you do.

People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals
1-888-VEG-FOOD • VegKids.com

PETA

Illustrations © Ken Course VE2382 3/04

Tubby Tammy

Chicken doesn't have any fiber at all and is packed with fat and cholesterol. Eating buckets of finger-lickin', grease-drippin' drumsticks, nuggets, and wings has made Tammy's tummy so big that she can barely button her pants—and she has to use a bungee cord for a belt!

People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals
1-888-VEG-FOOD • VegKids.com

PETA

Illustrations © Ken Course VE2382 3/04